

Sunday Killing Near Athens.

At Athens, Fayette county, Sunday, in a desperate shot gun and pistol duel, Thos. Miller, a blacksmith, was shot and killed by his son-in-law, "Doc" Whistman. The tragedy occurred at the home of Miller and was the result of a quarrel over money matters. It is said Miller fired two shots with a shotgun at Whistman before the latter offered any resistance, and then pulling a revolver fired three shots into Miller's body, killing him instantly. Whistman, who was uninjured, surrendered voluntarily to the officers and is in jail at Lexington awaiting his examining trial at which he will enter a plea of self defense.

Court House Fire at Versailles.

Fire, originating from an overheated stove, threatened the court house at Versailles with destruction yesterday. Prompt discovery of the fire saved the building. No one was in the court room at the time and the blaze was gaining considerable headway. A hose was attached to a hydrant in the building and the blaze was extinguished in a short time. The damage will amount to less than $100.

Bourbon Horseman Loses Animals.

A car containing eight horses, the property of Mr. Catesby Woodford of Paris, and John Ireland of Lexington, sidetracked one half mile from Frankfort, caught fire when a lantern fell to the floor of the car. Three horses were badly burned and may die as a result of their injuries. Johnny Frakes, a boy who was sleeping in the car, was severely burned before he could make his escape. Another boy, whose name could not be learned, was awakened and aided Frakes in taking the horses from the box car.

Speakership Will Go to Clark.

The fight over the speakership of the House of Representatives of the Sixty-second Congress is settled. Representative Champ Clark, of Missouri, has the written pledge of a majority of the Democrats who were elected to the House two weeks ago today. Telegrams and letters received by him indicate that he will have not less than 125 votes in the Democratic caucus. This would be ten more than necessary even though the Democratic majority in the House should reach 69. As the official majority is expected to be about 66 Mr. Clark has a still wider margin.

The fact is, however, that the Missourian will receive many more than 125 votes in the event that there should be a contest. Both Representative Henry of Texas, and Representative Hay of Virginia, are out of the race, and there is the barest of chances that an Eastern candidate would announce, many members from that section already being pledged to Clark. It is the general belief that Mr. Clark will have absolutely no opposition in the Democratic caucus and that he will be named unanimously. Mr. Clark's lieutenants in Washington are jubilant over the result of the caucus they have been making. While they have never had any doubt over the result, they are nevertheless happy that the votes are pocketed.

Live Stock Prices are Low.

The live stock market, which has been on the decline for several weeks, reached the lowest prices of the year, when fat hogs for shipment were sold at $4.25 per hundred pounds, and fat cattle brought from 5 to 5 1/2 cents per pound. H. S. Cayod shipped Friday eight car loads of cattle to the Eastern market. Small bunches of hogs which are being sold to farmers are bringing an advance of from one-half to three-quarters of a cent per pound over the shipping price.

THEATRICAL.

"ST. ELMO" ON THANKSGIVING DAY.

This announcement that Manager Porter has finally arranged for the appearance of Catherine Hadley and company in "St. Elmo," which will be a source of satisfaction to the better class of play-goers. The remarkable success has been beyond any question the greatest magnet from a box office point of view that the American theatres have ever known. As an artistic interpretation it will always be remembered with pleasure. It has been many years since such a dramatic gem has been witnessed.

The popularity of the play, no doubt, owes much to August J. Evans' great novel, which has been world famous. The prettiest story of the Old South ever written, different from the ordinary stage picture, and a genuine novelty.

The cast, headed by Catherine Hadley and Robert Robinson, includes such well known players as David Baldridge, Ralph Holland, George Shaw, Fanny Riehle and Dorothy Emerson. With such a cast the perfect presentation of almost any play would be assured.

The engagement is for one night only, Thanksgiving Day, November 24. The seat sale will be open at Mitchell & Blakemore's Tuesday morning.

Noble is Said to be in Jackson.

Jake Noble is said to be with his people in Jackson instead of having fled from the county as was reported.

Saturday it was reported that he had been seen in Jackson Friday surrounded by a bodyguard of five men, and that he was staying with his people only a few miles from Jackson instead of making an effort to get away, as has been currently reported until the past few days.

Little effort to effect his capture is reported, as it is recognized that any such attempt to take him from his hiding place would be little removed from suicide on the part of officers or others who might try to get him, as he has a great number of relatives and they are expected to stand by him to the last, with the exception of his brother, Henry B. Noble, who has repudiated him.

Since he murdered Jailer Wesley Turner, Jr., in cold blood on the night of November 8 on the steets of Jackson, in plain view of the crowd, and then escaped to the mountains, there has been an assortment of rumors and reports about him current every day, with more or less exciting features, but, after he had been reported to have appeared in numerous places, even as far away as Hamilton, Ohio, the reports have gradually wended until it seems that there probably is truth in those to the effect that he is with his people close to Jackson instead of trying to avoid justice by leaving that part of the country.

At Oyster Bay.

A Washington, D. C., paper recently contained the following:

"It is night at Oyster Bay. Heavy clouds overcast the sky. The east wind roars sullenly along the shore. The pine trees sigh and sob in the chill November air. No other sound breaks the stillness of the night. Up on a hill slightly inland loom dimly the outlines of a dwelling. No light sparkles from within its walls. No sound is heard. Even the dogs are dumb. There is silence, deep and eloquent at Oyster Bay."

"It is high noon at Oyster Bay. The sun is shining brightly from an unclouded sky. All nature smiles. The autumn leaves are aglow with color and the dancing waves of the historic harbor glint cheerfully in the light. Yet from the dwelling on the hill comes no sign of life. The dogs slink quietly about the yard. The birds peer wonderingly from their perches amid the branches. Silence still reigns at Oyster Bay."

"The sun, just set, reflects its raidance upon the western sky and casts a mellowing glow upon the sea. It is the hour of benisons, of kindly thoughts, of forgiveness, of charity toward men. Now perhaps the silence may be broken. The world stands waiting at the gates, eager for a token, out in vain. For Oyster Bay, remains silent even yet."

"Again it is night at Oyster Bay and still the silence prevades. Again it is morning, and again it is noon, and again it is twilight and yet there is no sound to break the sad stillness that has fallen pall-like upon the country side. The world waits with pathetic patience at the gates, tapping timidly from time to time upon the portals in hope of hearing from within, but in vain. The weary hours pass and no sign is given. The dogs creep into their kennels and sigh in discouragement. The birds return to their nests and twitter in wonderment. The moon turns an inquiring face upon the scene. The bats flit with sinister swiftness about the roof of the silent house. The world, still standing at the gate, begins to despair. How long must it wait? How long?"

—At the Comet, the cosy little five cent moving picture theatre on the corner of Fifth and Main streets, will be presented tomorrow, Wednesday, afternoon and night the world series of base ball pictures of the games recently played at Chicago. The game presented tomorrow afternoon will be the one played between Chicago and Philadelphia, resulting in a score of 4 to 3 in favor of Chicago. Every base ball fan in Paris will want to see this interesting picture. The first picture will be shown promptly at 1:30 p. m., running continuously until 5 o'clock, commencing again at 6:30 and running until ten o'clock.

Many Enemies of Beauty.

Really, when we come to think how numerous are the enemies of beauty—fear, sorrow, worry, disease, dust, wind and all the unfavorable influences of work—it is not after all surprising that so little of our childish beauty remains in later life.—London Daily Mail.

Cork Known in Ancient Times.

Cork was known to the Greeks and Romans, and was put to almost as many uses as at present, although there is no mention in Roman annals of linoleum, notwithstanding its Roman sound. Glass bottles with cork stoppers did not come into use until the middle of the fourteenth century.

Wise Law of Moses.

Corn-mills are often mentioned in the Bible. The original corn-mill much resembled the modern drug-gist's pestle. Moses forbade corn-mills to be taken in pawn, for that, he thought, was like taking a man's life in pledge.

Good Artificial Marble.

They are now making artificial marble with much success in Sicily. The manufactory is in the shadow of Mount Etna and there common blocks of sandstone are put in a tank containing volcanic asphalt and coal tar and boiled for 36 hours. The stones are then taken out and polished and it is said that it takes an expert to tell them from black marble.
